

Enjoy Your Holidays, Anyway

Written by Jamie Novak

You may feel like your home is not “perfectly” guest-ready, invite your friends and family over anyway.

When someone wants to show or tell you something and you feel too busy to stop, stop anyway.

Someone may offer you unsolicited advice which can feel like criticism, love that person anyway.

You may not feel “pretty” enough to get your picture taken, jump into the photograph anyway.

The Christmas card may not arrive on time, but mail it anyway.

Although your body or mind may ask for a time-out you feel like you should push ahead, take that break anyway.

You know that item you’ve been saving for a special day, today is special, use it anyway.

The holidays may not unfold how you envisioned in it your mind’s eye, embrace it anyway.

The holidays can be busy, messy, and loud, enjoy them anyway!